The Power of Choice Belu Mabandla 2013-02-01 In this world, success is often measured by the wealth and prestige that one acquires. So anyone who does not possess these things is considered a failure. However, for Belu Mabandla, her financial stability and her social status do not matter at all if she cannot $\dot{\text{c}}\text{ow}$ the seeds that benefit others. $\dot{\text{z}}$ With this in mind, she wrote The Power of Choice, a journal about her personal journey as a successful mother and career woman who was able to weather the storms of her life through her undying trust in God. The book also tells about the experiences of other people that can be a source of inspiration and valuable lessons

Giving It All Away...and Getting It All Back Again David Green 2017-04-25 Join self-made billionaire David Green, founder of America's craft store giant Hobby Lobby, as he shares the key to building a powerful legacy: generosity. In Giving It All Away...and Getting It All Back Again, Green unpacks time-tested principles that will help you reap the benefits of generosity for multiple generations to come. In 1970, David Green began making picture frames in his garage. With hard work, he and his wife, Barbara, turned that humble beginning into the world's largest privately owned arts-and-crafts retailer, employing forty-three thousand people across nine hundred stores in forty-seven states. But it's not all about business. Giving It All Away...and Getting It All Back Again—part memoir, part personal manifesto—will change the way you think about prosperity, teaching you that true wealth is about more than money. It's about growing your faith, your family, and your intellectual capital alongside your bank account. Green also reminds us that it's not just giving that sets the foundation for financial freedom. Practicing good stewardship also helps us pass on our values and set good examples for future generations. As Hobby Lobby has grown, Green has stayed true to this philosophy by adhering to three key principles: Work with all your heart for God and not for men Think ahead, but hold your plans lightly—you don't know what God has in store for you Consider what you want your legacy to be Follow Green as he invites you to see that a life marked by generosity can also be a life full of adventure—a life that pays the best rewards, changes the lives of those around you, and gives you the tools you need to leave a lasting legacy.

Big Gifts for Small Groups Andy Robinson 2004 If yours is among the tens of thousands of organizations for whom six- and seven-figure gifts are unattainable, then Andy Robinson's new book, Big Gifts for Small Groups, is just the ticket for you and your board. The subtitle, A Board Member's 1-Hour Guide to Securing Gifts of $500 to $5,000 says it all. Robinson is the straightest of shooters? a sort of John McCain of fundraising. There literally isn't one piece of advice in this book that's glib or inauthentic. It has all been earned. But, then again, what would you expect from a fellow who first won his stripes as door to door canvasser, making 10,000 pitches on 10,000 doorsteps. As a result of Robinson's "no bull" style, board members will take immediately to Big Gifts for Small Groups, confident the author isn't slinging unrealistic bromides. They'll learn everything they need to know from this one-hour read: how to get ready for the campaign, who to approach, where to find them; where to conduct the meeting, what to bring with you, how to ask, how to make it easy for the donor to give, what to do once you have the commitment? even how to convey your thanks in a memorable way. Believing that other books already focus on higher sum gifts, the author smartly targets a range that has been neglected: $500 to $5,000. Why? Here's what Robinson says: \circ They're large enough to justify the time it takes to develop a prospect list, prepare a letter, follow up with a phone call and visit the prospective donor. \circ They're small enough to include a wide range of prospects. \circ They're both modest enough to seem feasible to the novice, but also ambitious enough to make it worth their while. \circ Taken in the context of a major gifts campaign, with a team of solicitors working together, gifts of $500 to $5,000 can add up to a lot of money. Robinson has a penchant for good writing and for using exactly the right example or anecdote to illustrate his point. But more importantly he lets his no-nonsense personality shine through. The result being that by the end of the book, your board members just may turn to one another and say, "Hey, we can do this!" and mean it.

My Little Catechism Guillaume De Menthier 2016-09-30 This attractive and thorough little Catechism teaches children the beauty of the Catholic Faith by answering fundamental questions in easy-to-understand language. Centered on the profession of faith in the Apostles Creed, explanations are accompanied by Bible verses, prayers, and calls to action designed to help a child's faith develop into a vibrant, dynamic way of life. After each lesson there is a nice little summary Bible verse, a one sentence "We Believe" on the truth taught in the lesson, a "Put into Practice" sample of how to live the lesson, a short "Prayer," and a couple short questions to "Test Yourself." A catechism makes the Word of God ring within us to change our lives. The Word of God is no ordinary word. Saint John tells us that Jesus is the Word, which means the Word in person! Everything that God has to say to us, he says by giving us his Son, Jesus. This catechism helps us learn more about Jesus so that we can know him, follow him, and keep him always in our hearts.

God in My Everything Ken Shigematsu 2013-08-06 Ken Shigematsu shows that spiritual formation is more than just solitude and contemplative reflections. Spiritual formation happens in the everyday, in each and every moment of life. For those caught up in the busyness of work, family, and church, it often feels like time with God is just another thing on a crowded "to-do" list. Ken explains how the time-tested spiritual practice of the "rule of life" can help bring busy people into a closer relationship with God. He shows how a personal rule of life can fit almost any vocation or life situation. In God in My Everything, you will discover how to create and practice a life-giving, sustainable rhythm in the midst of your demanding life. If you long for a deeper spirituality but often feel that the busyness of life makes a close relationship with God challenging—and, at times, seemingly impossible—this book is for you.

The Rural World 1780-1850 Pamela Horn 2017-07-06 In this book, first published in 1980, the author draws a vivid picture of what country life was like for the vast majority of English villagers - agricultural labourers, craftsmen and small farmers - during a period of rapid agricultural development. This study analyses the influence of the enclosure movement on farming methods and on the structure of village life, and examines the devastating effects of the Napoleonic wars on English society. The Rural World is based on a wide range of sources, including parliamentary papers, contemporary letters, diaries and account books, and official records such as those relating to the Poor Law and the courts. It provides a fascinating overview of all aspects of rural life - from employment to home conditions, education, charity, crime, the role of religion and the influence of politics - during a critical period in English history.

A Revelation of Tithing Rome Moore 2018-04-12 Giving was very important in the churches I grew up in and tithing was without a doubt, paramount. The pastor made sure we understood the difference between tithes and offerings and how the tithe was "a mandatory tax" and the offering was above and beyond the tithe. It was explicitly clear that the tithe was not an offering. I never totally agreed with the tithe teaching, but it was part of the fundamentals of Christianity and I had to accept it. After I got married and had two young sons, I went to church two to three times a week and all day on Sunday. Have you ever wondered why some churches pass the offering bucket when it's time to give, while other churches have the people stand and walk around to give? This is because the leadership understands that when people are made to stand publicly and walk around and pass the offering basket, they are put in a position of embarrassment if they have nothing to give, and it works like a charm! Most people are paid on a weekly or bi-weekly basis. However, the tithe is requested during every service and separate from the offering in many churches. This is also done purposefully. Even though many members pay their tithes during Sunday Service, the request being made during weekly services places more pressure for members to give although they have already given. I've seen the most egregious abuses in Church regarding money: getting paid for prophecies, reading Scriptures on the punishment for breaking vows, and emphasizing living under the curse for not paying "the tax of the tithe." In hindsight, I cannot believe some of the errors pertaining to finances that I've witnessed in church. They do happen and continue to occur. In 2002, I started a new church. And like every other church in America, I continued to teach the doctrine of tithing. Some of my members struggled with giving ten percent of their income, while others, like me, had been indoctrinated and conditioned to do so for so long that we gave without hesitation. I was determined to take up only one offering during any service instead of the multiple offerings I had grown up witnessing and I was accustomed to. As a pastor, I did not take up two offerings for the tithe and the offering, but took both at the same time. I hated that so much of church was about money and I did not want my members feeling the same way I felt when I attended church. So I spent as little time as possible on giving. There were even services that I did not solicit finances from the people. However, in the end this still proved to be only baby steps in the right direction. It wasn't until I went through a season where I lost everything and in my anger towards God about my misfortune, that He challenged me to question everything I ever believed in and completely start over. Many of us grew up in religious environments that frowned upon leadership being questioned about anything. As a result, we have that same attitude with our Heavenly Father. However, if we are not asking questions, we are not learning. God does not have a problem with us asking questions. As a student of the Word of God I began to ask the Holy Spirit about everything taught to me by the church and this journey has led to many of the books I have published. A Revelation of Tithing came from this experience. May the truth set you free.

Forty Prayer Points for Tithe Payers Bishop O. Innocent 2018-01-09 WHY THIS BOOK? It is to further guide the young pastor in feeding and growing the church under his care. Our Lord Jesus Christ did not just ask us to pray in his name, he also says that we must not pray amiss. When we pray amiss, the entire exercise becomes wasted and no one wants to waste his time and effort. The Bible says iron sharpens iron. In writing this book, the author has in mind that the pastor already knows what the scripture says about tithing but may not be conscious of the various angles through which the devourer attacks tithe payers. My observation is that in most churches visited, barely five minutes are spent praying for tithe payers. However, if we are to pray for these set of vital members as they deserve more time is needed and such time must be maximally spent in touching all relevant areas without splitting hairs. Ministry has only three main pillars: 1. Anointing - which brings these people. 2. Integrity - which keeps or sends them away. 3. Money - which enables us to noise the gospel abroad. It is my candid opinion that none of these vital areas of ministry deserves to be treated with levity. However, it has been observed that we spend a lot of time on the first two, particularly Anointing, while barely mentioning Money in our prayers for various reasons some of which I wish to state below: 1. We fear of being accused of being money conscious. 2. Some of us believe that Anointing will pull in all needed resources. 3. Some of us just believe that money and issues pertaining to money are so unimportant that they should not even be mentioned in our prayers. Well, the book is about those who contribute money to the church and the kind of prayers we recommend for their good. Prayer as you and I know is communication and one of the hallmarks of good and proper communication is being specific. It is therefore not apt to just say father bless those who pay tithes in this church. We have to be specific about the areas of the tithe payers' lives we want God to intervene and the nature of intervention. Seeing that man is being increasingly short of time, we have deliberately kept this book as short and simple as can be hence the little volume. It is my prayers that this book helps in more ways than imaginable; to expand and enliven your intercession, which indeed is my goal. Let us not forget at all that he that waters shall surely be watered and that as you water the tithe payers, they will wax stronger and become more of a blessing to the work of God. Happy reading!

The Emancipation of Tithing M. D. Ewing 2012-05-01 Have you ever felt guilty about not tithing from your gross or net income? Did you ever wonder whether or not God was really cursing you or others for not giving him 10% of your money? Have you been a committed tither and yet struggled with maintaining your day-to-day financial needs? If so, this book is written and dedicated for you. The Emancipation of Tithing is a book that features straight-forward and biblical information about the history and practices of tithing before the law of Moses, the institution of tithing in the Law of Moses, and the absence of tithing during the days of Christ. This book also enlightens you about the creative sayings and scare tactics that are often used by many leaders to keep you spellbound and captivated by a religious practice that is no longer a required custom. This book will provide you with key elements encompassing the fundamental practices of tithing, the true purpose of free will giving, and is guaranteed to provide answers to many questions surrounding this controversial topic. As the author, my hope and prayer is that every reader will gain a better perspective with the information that is enclosed in this book. This book is not designed to change every reader's mind; however, it is designed to challenge every reader's philosophy. I simply ask that every reader to approach this information free from the preconceived notions of years past and retain only those things that are biblically proven. Let us no longer defend thought patterns that sounds reasonably good; but let us secure and preserve only those things that we can provide evidence. My attempt in writing this book was not to be anti-tithing, but to show relevant and compelling truth about the history of tithing and its purposes with its interactions. Furthermore, my effort with this attempt will become futile, if I did not incorporate biblically on how these earlier practices with its interactions diminished through out biblical history. The argument of "whether we should tithe or not" will probably live on forever; however, I can appreciate those who stand by what they perceive as truth as long as they have biblical references that is guided in the context of the scriptures. Stating, "He that is faithful in little is also faithful in much" has completely nothing to do with tithing and to use this statement as proof to why we should pay tithes is purely unfounded and is a lesson in showing how easy it can be to misappropriate an essential and vital piece of history that was written long ago.

Tithing Douglas LeBlanc 2010-12-27 "Bring the whole tithe into the storehouse, that there may be food in my house. Test me in this," says the Lord Almighty, "and see if I will not throw open the floodgates of heaven and pour out so much blessing that you will not have room enough for it." — Malachi 3:10 In these uncertain economic times, does it really make sense to tithe? Douglas LeBlanc thinks the answer is clear enough in Malachi 3:10, where God goes so far as to tell us, "Test me in this." The people profiled in this book have done exactly that—and the effect on their lives has been dramatic. In these intimate journalistic portraits, LeBlanc shows us true tithing in action. From members of the clergy, to best-selling authors, to social activists both conservative and liberal, these are the lives of real people who tithe in joy and plenty, in the face of poverty and natural disaster, in community and missionally, and as a spiritual practice commanded by God. They come from different backgrounds and live in varying degrees of financial comfort; but they all tithe—and wouldn't have it any other way. Through their eyes, we come to understand this ancient practice as God's call to a life of generosity, compassion, and joy. THE ANCIENT PRACTICES There is a hunger in every human heart for connection, primitive and raw, to God. To satisfy it, many are beginning to explore traditional spiritual disciplines used for centuries. . . everything from fixed-hour prayer to fasting to sincere observance of the Sabbath. Compelling and readable, the Ancient Practices series is for every spiritual sojourner, for every Christian seeker who wants more.

He Came First Rod Parsley 2008-07-13 Ask any person to name the first man to walk on the moon, and most can tell you it was Neil Armstrong. And almost anyone could tell you Charles Lindberg made the first solo transatlantic flight. Few would know that Sir Edmund Hillary and Tenzing Norgay first successfully scaled Mt. Everest, but our admiration is no less because we don't remember their names. As a society, we reward, revere, and respect firsts and the courageous men and women who achieve them. Rod Parsley calls these individuals breakers. "Breakers look at barriers as merely building blocks to further feats of achievement," Parsley writes. "They refuse to take life at face value, believing that greatness lies beyond the next barrier. With fierce determination and fearless courage, they break through what others believed was impenetrable." Parsley contends that God is raising a modern generation of breakers to achieve His purposes. We have the perfect model in Jesus Christ, the "First of all firsts" who shattered the barrier between divinity and humanity, proving Himself to be "the Breaker who goes before us." Through Scripture and insight, Rod Parsley passionately urges Christians to break out in obedience and become modern-day Samsons, Deborahs, Esthers, and Stephens.

Flying on Faith Emma Jean Carole 2019-10-14 If you have ever doubted God, then you should read this domestic violence true story from the '80s when there were no laws in place or anyone to help someone get their child back that has been taken by the other parent. Letting go completely and giving it to God is what brought Emma's son back to her. There was no doubt in her mind and God showed her throughout the ordeal that he was by her side. Emma's story has helped others in getting their child back also. She was given the strength even after being weak from abuse, and faith to face her fears. She found God again in her life whom she had deserted years before. She spent 7 days on nothing but faith in giving it to God, and He brought her little boy back home.

The Bible Students Guide to the More Correct Understanding of the English Translation of the Old Testament, by Reference to the Original Hebrew William Wilson 1870

Bring All the Tithes Paul Gorman 2014-06-20 Bring all the tithes into my storehouse . . . is the wondrous instruction given us by the prophet, Malachi. But how many have "tried" tithing with little or nor result? Here is the reason and the true, spiritual way - a wonderful little book which takes the reader into the "secret depths" of the miracle of tithing and the rich fruits that are the automatic and infallible result for all the world to see. A tithe is a giving of one's being, one's substance. Because God is spirit, all being and all experience (the world and universe and everything in it and of it) is spiritual. Therefore the true tithe is a giving of one's spiritual being and spiritual fruits. Tithing is a miraculous act of being with miraculous results. But it has been assumed that when we give a percentage of our matter, particularly our money, our giving somehow results in God, in turn, giving us more or greater matter in the forms of money, opportunity and success. But matter in and of its own self does not exist, only God exists - only God is, only spirit is - so if we are still in material belief and lacking spiritual awareness, we may hear about tithing and try to practice it, with little or no result. This was my experience when I was still attempting to get God which is spirit to improve my physical body and material world - and in the particular ways I needed them improved! As this little book clearly, lovingly and emphatically explains, the material experience including all form, place, amount, condition and activity is simply a sense of that which is spirit and spiritual. The entire key to spiritual awakening is to realize that we, the human being, are simply having a corporeal sense of that which is one hundred percent incorporeal - God, spirit, truth. Once this is truly understood the secret of tithing opens up its doors to boundlessness and the freedom of the world. So let us immediately understand that only God is, and because of that, God is for God alone. There is none but God; therefore there cannot be, and is not, anything but God 'happening.' When we realize this we have the key to the miracle of being. Before we realize this we not only have the wrong key, but we're attempting to use it to open the wrong door. With the true, spiritual understanding and activity of tithing, here is the way to open the floodgates of truth in your life, in all ways and with the abundance of all forms, including dollars. "Prove me now herewith, if I will not open you the windows of heaven, and pour out blessings for you, that you shall not have room enough to receive them."
